

ezeep Blue and Make Automate Printing for Thousands of Apps

ThinPrint's cloud printing solution ezeep Blue enables print workflows in Make

Berlin/Denver, October 10, 2023 – At the NoCode Summit in Paris (booth P10), ThinPrint announces that ezeep Blue has been integrated into the Make automation solution. The partnership focuses on optimizing automated processes with print output, all within a strictly GDPR compliant framework.

More than 500,000 users in nearly 200 countries use the Make (formerly Integromat) automation platform to enable workflows and automated processes without programming. The functions of the integrated apps range from AB testing to workflow management and this functional diversity will be supplemented by a printing category, now that cloud printing solution ezeep Blue has been integrated in Make.

"Working with Make is an important step for companies looking for a seamless, secure, and privacy-compliant printing solution for their automated work processes," said Charlotte Künzell, CEO of ezeep Blue manufacturer ThinPrint. "It all works very easily and completely without programming knowledge. By integrating a print function, companies open up a whole new optimization potential."

Apps that are not yet integrated with Make can be extended to include printing capabilities via ezeep Blue's API, which is available at <https://developer.ezeep.com/>.
